The Wellington and the Manhansett were caught in a sudden and ter-rifle rainstorm when abreast of the Navy Yard, so they tied up at the Navy Yard dock until it should let up. They had not been there long, however, before Commodore Pife, U. S. N., the Commandant of the yard, ordered both the Wellington and the Manhansett to throw off their lines and leave the dock, because they had failed to ask his dock that the Commodore might rescind his orders. Capt. Jim Smith of the Manhansett said that in all his forty years' experience on the river he never saw such an exhibition of petty tyranny.

It was thought that the rain would quiet the water, but it did not. The wind kept freshening up every minute, and it was evident from the first that the race could not be rowed to-day. The referee went over the course in a launch, however. When he came back it was decloud to postpone the race again. It will be the perfect of the course of the course in a launch, however. At "Red Top," the Harbor quarters, they are having a great time to-night. The retinue of colored servants have arranged an entertainment for the crew. Bome of the members themselves are billed for parts. Acton is down for a selection of Irish airs on the flute, while Bond has consented to render several numbers on the banjo. When the entertainment is over they expect to go to bed and sleep like tops, providing Cummings restrains himself from reciting poetry in his sleep. He has been doing that every night for more than a week. The Yale crew is keeping very quiet to-night. Van Huyek and Johnson are being watched like hot-house flowers. NEW CAPTAIN OF PARK POLICE. Sergeant Collins Promoted to the Place of

The Park Commissioners, at an executive meeting hold yesterday afernoon, appointed

Sergeant Christopher C. Collins Captain of the Park Police, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Capt. Thomas Beaty on March 26 last. Capt. Collins was born in Ireland in 1852, and has been in the Park Department since April 2, 1879, when he was appointed a gate keeper. In March, 1880, he became a park keeper, and in October, 1885, was promoted to be a roundsmap. He was reduced to the ranks in April, 1887, for no cause apparent on the records. The reason which was assigned was political activity. Two days before Capt. Beaty's sudden death Collins was again made a roundsman, and on May 5 last he was promoted to be a Sergeant. His appointment to the Captaincy was made after a competitive civil service examination particlcompetitive civil service examination participated in by Sergeant and Acting Capt. Louis Flock and Sergeants John W. England, James B. Ferris, and Collins. The three certified for appointment were Ferris, with a percentage of 18.75; Collins, whose percentage was 18.02, and Flock, with a standing of 18.50 per cent. Capt. Collins is of fine physique, a splendid equestrian, and possesses the temperament and ability which are necessary in the commander of so large a force as he will have under him. He lives at 7 Attorney street. His salary as Captain will be $2.750.

The Commissioners also promoted Roundsman Michael F. Dillon to be a Sergeant, and Park keeper John W. Wilson to be a roundsman.

Park keeper John W. Wilson to be a roundsman.
Contracts were awarded to the lowest bidders for the several public improvements for which estimates were made at Wednesday's meeting, as follows:
For the temporary bridge over the Harlem River. T. & A. Walsh, 512,000; for approaches to the New York and Korthern Railway bridge footways, John D. Walsh, 54,847; for granite coping around Mount Morris Fark, Stephen Raddy, $10,268,86; for an iron railing around the same park, M. J. Brummond, $2.46 per foot; for a mound stand in Mount Morris Fark, John E. McGuire, $1,269; to improving the Central Fark, plaza at 110th street and Fifth avenue. F. Thielman, $7,740.

The Commissioners adopted a resolution The Commissioners adopted a resolution asking the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to authorize the issue of $40,000 in bonds for the improvement of the annexed district parkways. They also extended the time for croquet playing in Central and Mount Morris parks to 7 P. M. during the month of July.

LIEUT, FARROW BEATS THE DUTCH. The Court Intimates that Defendants Sought to Grasp a Little Too Much.

Lieut. Edward S. Farrow obtained yesterday a decree in his favor from Justice Beach of the Supreme Court in his action against the Holand Trust Company. George W. Van Sicien. Christian Schramme, and others, to remove liens from the Barnegat Park Association and for other relief.

"The voluminous record of the trial," says Justice Beach. "fails to disclose any action or representation of the plaintiff calling for criticiem or condemnation by the Court. He was the originator of the enterprise at Barnegat Park. by earnest and long-continued effort. Unnecessitated such large expenditures that in necessitated such large expenditures that in the latter half of 1890, the affairs of the corporation required efficient action for its financial relief, mainly by funding outstanding obligations."

The Judge sets aside the agreement for the issue of $300,000 of first mortgage bonds and $200,000 of income bonds for the payment of five per cent. commission on sales to the Holiand Trust Company, and for the delivery to Van Siclen and Schramme of $65,000 of the income bonds for their services. He says that this agreement is "in every feature unjust and inequitable, an unwarranted imposition upon any and all parties subject to the excessive and unheard-of burdons it sought to impose. A previout agreement for a trust mortgage of $500,000 is also set aside, and Van Siclen. Schramme, and Murphy are directed to return to Farrow all stock, securities, vouchers, and papers transferred to them under this agreement. The Court however, does not disturb the mortgage of $500,000 is $1500.000 to under this agreement. The Court however, does not disturb the mortgage of $35,000 given to the Holland Trust Company.

The Judge says he will appoint a referee before whom the creditors may present their claims.

and Became Tired of Life. BALTIMORE, June 30.-Frederick St. Cloud and his wife Irene, who died together at the Carrollton Hotel by taking poison, will he buried by the woman's relatives. It became known to-day that St. Cloud came from a good English family of Middlesex, near London. His father is now a Colonel in the English army. After serving in the army a few years, the young man bought his release for £400, and came here. He enlisted for five years at Fort McHenry, giving the name of Cloudy. He became so dissipated that he was dismissed. It was while at the fort he met Irene Story, a a girl of 1d. She became infatuated with him, and married him. The marriage, at his request, was kept secret, and not until last January did the wife tell her mother. St. Cloud then promised to take her to England and introduce her to his family. The couple then went to Philadelphia, and thence to New York. St. Cloud made some money by selling an electric helt, but spent it all in opium. He also taught his wife to use the drug. On the Sunday preceding the suicide they consumed (98 grains of morphia. Last week the wife found that she had been married under the assumed name of Cloudy, and she persuaded St. Cloud to have the ceremony repeated. She then told his aunt here of her husband's habits, and became very despondent. She said his health was broken, and that he had hed sevand married him. The marriage, at his rethen told his aunt here of her husband's nab-its, and became very despondent. Sho said his health was broken, and that he had had sev-enal hemorrhages. She despaired of his re-covery, and when she left for the hotel, said it was the last she would see of her. They swal-lowed a large quantity of morphia, and, fear-ing it would not have the desired effect, took lough on liats. St. Cloud was 28 years old.

THOURIE OVER THE ESTATE OF THE LATE THOMAS CORNELL.

One of the Helra Applier for an Injunction Restruining the Executor from Sell Certain Stocks.-Grave Charges Made, KINGSTON DEPOT, June 30.-When Thomas Cornell, the millionaire steamboat owner Rondout, died. March 30, 1800, he left esstate estimated at $2,000,000 above endumbrances. This represented interests in the First National Bark of Ron-dout, the Cornell Steamboat Company. Uster and Delaware Railroad Company, the Ulster and Delaware Plank Road Company, and the Rhinebeck and Kingston Perry Company. The will, after providing that a $30,000 mausoleum be erected to his principles," be ginning with the words: memory and that his widow should have the homestead at Rondout for life, created a trust of the rest of the ostate, which should last during the life of his two sons-in-law. His widow was to receive ninety per cent. of the income, the rest reverting to the estate. pon the death of the sons-in-law the residuary estate, by many complicated provisions, went to the two daughters. These two daughters are Mrs. Neille L. Carpenter, the wife of Robert Bayard Carpenter of New York, and Mrs. Mary Augusta Coykendall, wife of Samuel D. Coy-

I assert that the sole reason ever put forth by the defendant Young for not enforcing the rights of the estate of my father in the Cornell Steamboat Company was that if he did so and brought about the bankruptcy of Mr. Coykendall, it would go against the estate by destroying or injuring the First National Bank of Rondout, in which, of course, my father's estate was largely interested."

Judge Andrews, after hearing all this, granted a temporary injunction restraining Mr. Coykendall and Mr. Young from disposing of the stock of the Cornell Steamboat Company until July 21, when a motion to make the injunction permanent will be heard.

Both Mr. Coykendall and Mr. Young are out of town to-day, but their lawyers were willing to speak about the matter. Judge A. T. Clearwater, who is Mr. Coykendall's lawyer, said:

"We would have opposed this motion for an injunction with all the vigor at our command had we not found that a copy of the records of another court that we needed was incomplete. I have in my desk an affidavit made by Mr. Coykendall, in which he swears that a gentleman claining to represent Mrs. Carpentor and her husbands said to him that if he would pay to them a bonus of $50,000 the sale would be consented to, and all objections would be withdrawn. Mr. Coykendall swears that he said to that man that never in his life had he paid black mail, and he did not propose to begin how. No Provision is the Constitution Against It, Although the Socialist Party Is Left Out. The elimination of the political plank in the constitution of the new Central Labor Union. which is to be formed in Clarendon Hall on Sunday, July 10, is likely to create lively discussions in the future. The new central body, which is to be permanently formed on Sunday, July 10, is composed principally of the unions in the Central Labor Union and the New York Federation of Labor. The Central Labor Union is composed of about seventy-live organizations connected with the Knights of Labor and the New York Federation of Labor and the American Federation of Labor, and the New York Federation of Labor is a hody that split from the Central Labor Federation in a fight Samuel Gompers had with the latter body, because it admitted the Socialistic Labor party, a political organization, to be represented in its discussions. Finally Mr. Gompers, as President of the American Federation of Labor, refused a charter to the Central Labor Federation. MACUINE OILED; STEAM UP. Engineers Platt and Miller Watting for

Uncle Charley Hackett of Utica, who represents the Platt and Miller harmony in the State, will appoint an advisory committee of Republicans next week. The Platt and Miller harmony is so thick these days that it cannot be cut with an axe. Mr. Hackett, as Chairman of the Executive Committee of Republicans to conduct the campaign in the State, has called to his aid men of literary ability. They will shoot the persiflage at the enemy.

The Republican machine is now in fine run-ning order. Platt and Miller have one hand on the throttle and the other on the reversing lever. Their influence is dominant among the working Republicans of New York, Kings, and, in fact, all the counties from Gowanus to Susdent's representative in the State, frankly admits this. But the Platt-Miller machine is not yet ready to move. It is on the track with steam up. Yet Platt and Miller, the two engineers, do not propose to move a yard until word is received from Washington.

Secretary Elkins is here, but Platt and Miller are not inclined to communicate through him with the White House. They prefer their own representative. Senator Hiscock has been informed of the situation, and he has invited William Brookfield, Chairman of the Republican State Committee, and President of the County Committee, to call upon the President next week. It was the talk vesterday that Cornelius N. Bliss, Treasurer of the new Republican National Committee; Henry W. Cannon, President of the Chase National Bank; Alfred R. Whitney, and a dozen more Republicans of the same stamp will endeavor to bring Platt and Miller into closer and more cordial relations with the President. One of these gentlemen and: steam up. Yet Platt and Miller, the two engitions with the President. One of these gentlemen said:

"The Republicans need New York State. We carried the State by 14,000 in 1888. But that is a narrow margin. We are all Republicans. We believe that the President should be on more friendly terms with the leaders in the State. There is no breach. It is rather a coolness, especially on the part of the President. A majority of the Republicans of the State opposed the renomination of the President at Minneapolis on honest grounds. But they are Republicans, and if disaster befalls us in the State this fail the President will have nobody to blame but himself. All hands should get together."

DR. DERRICK'S FRIENDS TO RALLY. But if They Rally Too Much, Lowering Medicines May Be Administered,

Friends of the Rev. Dr. W. B. Derrick, the colored preacher who was turned down as the additional member of the Republican State Committee and was replaced by the Rev. Jeremiah R. B. Smith of Harlem, have issued a circular calling on all of the Doctor's friend o "Arouse!" and attend a meeting to be held Seventh avenue, to-morrow evening. This meeting is advertised to have been called by the Colored Republican County Organization meeting is advertised to have been called by the Colored Republican County Organization for the purpose of expressing unqualified approval of the Doctor's "leadership in the past and pledging their loyal support to him in the future."

The Republican leaders in the city think that they see in this announcement a revolt against the organization, and have taken precautions, it is said, tending to turn the meeting of protest into a Republican love feast. They have faith in their ability to do this, as many of the colored men who are prominent in the calling of the meeting hold Federal places which they would hardly care to sacrifice. Among them are Edward Barguet, Thomas H. Brown, Col. James B. Lee, William Freeman, and Daniel Morrison, Custom House employees; Edward S. Flow and Caleb A. Simms of the Public Stores: Piorre Barguet of the Immigrant Eureau, William Greene of the Post Office, and Austin Allen, Internal Revenue Collector Eidman's messenger. Editor Christopher Stewart of the Union-Times, the opposition colored organ to State Committeeman Smith's New York Fisho, is also one of the foremost movers in the demonstration.

less minority, they will put the People's party electors on the regular Democratic ticket, in the hopes that they may thereby prevent the Republican electors from getting a majority of the votes cast.

"The new People's party is not the old Farmers' Alliance, the old Labor party, and members of various other parties, such as the Greenbackers, the Grangers, and the Independents. In Pennsylvania the followers of Mr. Powderly, to the number of 100,000, will vote for the nominee of the Omaha Convention, and as most of these will be taken from the ranks of the Republicans. Pennsylvania may go Democratic.

"It may be the election will be thrown into the House of Riepresentatives. The law provides that in case the electoral college fails to select the House shall ballot on the names of the three men who received the highest number of votes. In the Senate, where the Vice-President is elected in such an event as I have named, each Senator casts one vote. The result of the cleetion, in case the People's party should get the balance of power, would therefore be: President, Grover Cleveland; Vice-President, Whitelaw Keid."

CUT IN TWO BY THE TRAVE

THE SHIP FRED. B. TAYLOR WAS RUN DOWN IN A DENSE FOG. First Mate Killed, a Seaman Drowned

and the Captain Injured-Twenty Men. Struggling in the Waves, Are Saved by Beats from the Steamship Trave, London, June 30.—The North German Lloyd steamship Trave, which left New York on June 21, arrived at Southampton at 4:20 o'clock this morning. The Trave had on board 247 cabin passengers and several hundred in the steerage, and also Capt. E. F. Huribert Nova Scotla full-rigged ship, Fred. B. Taythe morning of June 22. Capt. Hurlbert's first inquiry when the Trave came into port was about his ovite in Brooklyn, and when he heard that she had become a mother, and that she and the baby were well, he seemed to forget his troubles, and exclaimed joyfully.

"Thank God!" The Fred. B. Taylor was bound for New York from Havre, France, and started on May 12. She has built in 1883 at Tusket, N. S., and her owners were William Law & Co. of Yarmouth, N. S., of which place Capt. Hurlbert is a natiwe. The Fred. E. Taylor had been chartered for a voyage to Buenos Ayres, South America, from New York. Capt, Hurlbert's wife had accompanied him to Havre, but went back by steamship to New York. The Fred. B. Taylor left Havre in ballast, and the voyage was without Incident until early on the morning of the 22d, when the Captain and crew were looking forward to an early arrival in port. The Fred. B. Taylor was about 260 miles east of New York. A dense fog prevalled, and it was impossible for the lookout to see even a foot beyond the bows. Suddenly was heard the throb of the engines of a great steamer. Almost at the same instant the big vessel loomed up in the fog, and just as the lookout shouted warning the steamer crashed into the ship. Capt. Hurlbert at the time was on the bridge. This is always his custon in fog or when near land at night. The ship was cut very nearly in half. The water rushed in like a torrent, and the broken halves of the vessel sank out of sight. Those of the crew who had escaped immediate death or injury were struggling in the water. Cant. Burlbert had his logs badly burt in the death or injury were struggling in the water. The chief was crushed to death in his cabin. Capt. Hurlbert had his legs badly hurt in the collision, but he forgot his own injuries in his anxiety to save his men, who were now struggling for their lives in the water, some holding to pieces of wreckage, and others making an effort to keep themselves up by swimming until rescue should come.

The Nova Scotians are, as a rule, goed swimmers as well as good satiors, and this accounts for so many having been saved. A Russian who was among the crew did not know how to swim, and seemed from the first to lose his head. He tried to grab at others who had all they could do to keep above the waves, which were running quite high.

Capt. Beimkasten and the other officers of the Trave acted with admirable promptitude. The collision came to them as unexpectedly as to the ship. They were making good head way through the fog. and taking the usual precautions, when the steamer crashed into the ship at the same instant that the ship's outline became visible. The Trave was brought as soon as possible to a full stop, and even while she was being stopped officers and crew were busy preparing the boats, which were lowered within a few minutes after the collision. The German seamen leaped into the boats, and with a few minutes after the collision. The German seamen leaped into the boats, and with a few strokes they were among the struggling crew of the wrecked ship, pulling them in as fast as they could be roached. Capt. Hurlbert would not permit himself to be rescued until he had seen the rest of his men safely in the boats. His legs had been crushed, but he kept encouraging the others, and assisting them as far as he could. The stewardoss, the only woman on board, was rescued without injury, but not until she was almost exhausted and about to sink. Several of the crew who were able to swim took turns in helping to keep her above water. All were taken aboard the drowned Russian seaman, who had also acted as a carpenter. The utmost care w

ADVANCE OF THE CHOLERA.

The Plague Pushing Westward in Spite of

St. PETERSBURG, June 30 .- In accord with instructions from the Ministry of the Interior prevent the further spread of the cholera. Passengers on the Trans-Caucasian Railway are quarantined, and petroleum is being sprinkled as a disinfectant in the streets of Baku. The conveyance of goods over the Trans-Caucasian route has been suspended for the present. The passengers are quarantined a short distance from Baku, where they are compelled to wash themselves, and, if are compelled to wash themselves, and, if necessary, change their clothing. Some of those arriving from Central Asia object vigorously to taking a bath, seeming to regard it as a Christian religious ceremony. After being thoroughly cleansed with soap and water they are detained for three days, and if no disease develops are allowed to proceed. In Eaku the people have been compelled to clean their houses, and druggists are ordered to sell disinfectants at cost. Similar preventive measures are taken in other places threatened with the plague.

Fresh cases are reported daily within the Russian frontier. Gen. Fischer, the head of the Sanitary Commission, has ordered that all food entering the country be analyzed. A large quantity has already been destroyed as

The Commercial Congress Advocates the LONDON, June 30.-The Congress of Chambers of Commerce of the British empire declared to-day for free trade by adopting Mr. Medley's resolution by a vote of 47 to 34 Medley's resolution, which, with Sir Charles Tupper's amendment, has been under dis cussion for over two days, declared that fiscal union between Great Britain and her colonies by preferential duties, being based upon pro by preferential duties, being based upon protection, would be politically disastrous and that the arrangement that would best conduce to an intimate commercial union would be for the self-governing colonies to adopt, as closely as circumstances will permit, the non-protective policy of Great Britain.

Sir Charles Tupper's amendment in favor of preferential duties was finally defeated by a vote of 55 to 33.

A resolution was passed unanimously in favor of abrogating all clauses in treaties with European Governments which hinder agreement as to trade between Great Britain and her colonies.

The Congress then took up the questions her colonies.

The Congress then took up the question of Boards of arbitration for the settlement of trade and commercial disputes.

SAID TO BAYE SEEN MICE. Testimony of Physicians and Relatives at

POUGHREEPSIE, June 30.-The final hearing in the habeas corpus proceeding brought by the Rev. Francis E. Shober of St. John's Episcopal Church at Barrytown, to compel his wife to permit him to visit his four children, was held here to-day before Judge Barnard. The presence of Mrs. Jane Aspinwall as a witness excited some interest. Mrs. Aspinwall is the mother of Mrs. Shober, who alleges that her husband should not be permitted to see his children because of his intemperate habits. Mrs. Aspinwall was accompanied by her travelling companion, Mme. Rev-nould. The substance of her testimony was that she had always regarded Mr. Shober with affection. She was aware of his financial condition when she consented, ten rears ago, to his marriage with her daughter She nover saw him under the influence of liquor. She knew that his health was delicate, and that he used liquor on the advice of his physician. "I once heard some remarks about his intemperate ways, but I never believed them," said Mrs. Aspinwall with visible feeling. "He used liquor, beer, and wise at my own table. It was a recognized fact in my household that he used stimulants."

used liquor, beer, and wise at my own table. It was a recognized fact in my household that he used stimulants."

A sensation was made by John Aspinwall, brother of Mrs. Shober, who declared that Mr. Shober was intoxicated on the day of his marriage two hours after the ceremony, and that it was necessary to put him to bed in the tower of the "Mossens" mansion. On crosse-examination Mr. Aspinwall admitted that the man whom he saw lying, as he supposed, intoxicated, might have been somebody else than the bridegroom. The witness also said that he had noticed the young pastor under the influence of liquor while conducting service at St. John's Church on one occasion.

In answer to these charges Mr. Shober said that he had retired to his room on his wedding day because of nervousness and a violent headsche. He said that he was ill at the service referred to, and that Mrs. Aspinwall prepared him a milk punch before going to the church, as he had been holding service in his outlying missions during the day.

Fannio E. Shober of Salisbury, N. C. Mr. Shober's sister, said that she was prosent at the service referred to, and that she noticed her brother's lilness. "But," she added with trairs in her eyes, he was better when he preached, and I never heard my brother preached, and I never heard my brother preach a better or more beautiful sermon."

Dr. Edwin K. Losee of hed Hook, who attended the clergyman last December and diagnosed his case as one of delirium tremens, was called for the first time. He said that last December Mrs. Shober strongled violently, and there was a look of terror on his face. He said he saw goblins coming toward him over the footboard and saw mice on his sleeves. He thought there were burglars in the house. Then he wanted to go to the opera, and, getting out of bed in his stocking feet, started to go out doors. The witness administered morphine, but could not get him to sleep for a day or two. All of the symptoms were those of delirium tremens.

but could not get him to sleep for a day or two. All of the symptoms were those of delirium tremens.

The Court directed counsel to submit their findings next Thursday, when it will be decided whether or not Mr. Shober shall be longer kept from seeing his children. The fidelity of Mr. Shober's old parishioners to him in his trouble is the talk of the county. Scores of them have come from Red Hook, twenty miles distant, to be present at each hearing in his case, and not one of them has yet been found to believe the story of his intemperance. To-day's proceedings have served to greatly deepen the interest in the case, as the decision of Bishop Potter upon an application to restore Mr. Shober to the ministry is expected at any time. The Rev. B. L. Ziegniass, Archdeacon of this diocese, sat all day in the court room listening to the testimony.

MAX CLERGET BURIED

In the Lutheran Cemetery, in Earth Not The body of Max Clerget, whom Edward Divin shot in the General Sessions Court on Monday for betraying his fifteen-year-old sister, was buried yesterday in the Lutheran Cemetery. A crowd hung around the door of Colahan's undertaking shop, at 131 Avenue B. and remained there until the hearse and its two attendant carriages moved away. The Enterprise Glee and Musical Club. of which Enterprise Glee and Musical Club, of which Clerget was a member, sent a large floral piece, which was laid on the coffin.

After the friends had entered the inner room where the coffin was the curious crowd broke through the outer door, in spite of the efforts of the policeman to keep them out.

Henry Clerget, Max's brother, cried aloud as he looked at the face in the coffin, and so did a middle-aged aunt and a young girl, a cousin of the brothers. Mrs. Clerget, Henry's wife and the sister of little Sarah, whom Max assaulted, was there with her baby in her arms, but made no demonstration of feeling. The crowd watched all with curious faces.

The undertaker screwed down the lid of the coffin and four men carried it to the hearse outside, but with difficulty, for people in the street made a rush for it from every direction. It was got into the hearse without mishap, but the members of the family had to fight their way to the carriage which awaited them. Three members of the glee club got into a second carriage, and all drove rapidly around the corner of Eighth street, the crowd follow-

Governor of Moscow, has ordered that all the pawn shops in that city owned by Jews shall be closed. The reasons given are that the Jewish pawnbrokers have been oppressive and dishonest in their dealings, especially with poor Christians; that in many instances they have obtained articles of value by an advance not more than one-twentieth of what the articles were worth; that Christian women offering to pawn articles have been insulted by improper advances on the part of Jewish pawnbrokers, and that some of the pawnbrokers are in collusion with thieves. The Grand Duke Sergius has himself given personal attention to some of these charges, and has ordered the offending pawnbrokers to return money realized on articles over and above the amount advanced and a reasonable interest. The Jewish pawnbrokers have until next month to close up their affairs. It's said they will mostly emigrate to America. The course of Grand Duke Sergius is highly approved at St. Petersburg. that the Jewish pawnbrokers have been on

Mr. Giben says that although Buckley's condition ras noticed by the officers of the steamship he was allowed to land on British soil. The sinstrels tock him along with them to Mancheser, where they opened their tour, but Manager Christianer, who is an old-time friend of Bickley's, would not permit the comedian to appear. Instead, he delegated Mr. Gibson to reurn at once to this city with the unfortunatemen. Buckley's lare to and from England was paid by the manager, who also defrayed his expenses in England. Mr. Gibson has put Buckley in the care of friends in Fourteeath street, and an examination will doubtless bemade at once.

Buckley was until recently a very popular and elever performer. He has travelled with most of the first-class ministrel and variety troupes, and is said by those who know him well to be a moderate drinker, and not a dissipated man. Some years ago he married Lizzle Daly, the dancer, and a member of the Boston theatical family of that name. They have one child a bright little girl. Vinie, who is on the stage as a dancer, and is with her mother. Buckley and his wife separated a few seasons ago, and a suit for divorce was instituted by Mrs. Buckley, who subsequently went out as a star in a comedy farce called "The Latest Fad" Buckley was much affected by his separation from his child.

mastered the initial point in the new regulations—that the four, or squad, is the unit of action—and in that final raily overy four preserved the integrity of its formation and moved with handmess and certainty.

Rivalry is getting intense at the north end of the camp, where the separate companies are tented. It is friendly, but to-day, when it became known that the Forty-second of Niagara Falls had takes the cake for the finest street in camp, the members of the Twanty-second of SaratogaSprings got excited. They contended that Niagara rails had got the better of them because the Forty-second had brought their own the cups, a lawn mower, and oil to polish the outsides of the water buckets, and that these were unfair advantages.

Company B, in the Ninth, got two prizes to-day. Mai, Williams said they had both the test kept and the wist kept tent in the regiment. The non-case of the company paid a pretty compliment a their second fleutenant, Arthur M. Tompkins. This was the sixth anniversary of his mariage, and they filled up his tent with flowers or emind him of it.

Rain laid the somewhat troublescent dust this afternoon and prepared all the grounds for the last military childrid on the day. It was a parade in celum of masses, and, like the parade in celum of masses, and, like the parade in celum of platoens last night, was the first ceremay of the kind ever seen by any officer on the grounds.
